

PLATE COOLERS

In order to stop the microbiological growth it is necessary to cool the product.

We have a cooling system for the three products after breaking. A membrane pump pushes the product straight through a plate cooler to cool the egg products after breaking. The cooler can be used with glycol or ice water.

We can offer you coolers for each capacity. Enabling cooling before filtration and thus reducing bacteriological contamination.